

THE INDEPENDENT NEWS SOURCE

ACCOUNTABILITY

ART & MEDIA

FAITH & PARISH

GLOBAL

PEACE & JUSTICE

POLITICS

SPIRITUALITY

THEOLOGY

VATICAN

SISTERS' STORIES

NY Catholics show up in force to lobby for Child Victims Act

by Jamie Manson | Apr. 22, 2015

NCR Today

6

While many folks around the world marked April 22 as Earth Day, in Albany, N.Y., State Assemblywoman Margaret M. Markey used the occasion to host a Lobby Day to promote awareness of child sexual abuse.

Across the country, April is known as National Child Abuse Prevention Month. Markey and sixty other assemblymembers have called on Gov. Andrew Cuomo to extend the proclamation to New York state, which ranks among the worst for the way in which it deals with victims of child sexual abuse crimes, according to a survey by Professor Marci Hamilton of Cardozo Law School.

Unlike some states that have either no statute of limitation or an extended statute of limitation, in New York, victims must bring criminal or civil charges against their abusers within five years of their 18th birthday.

For years, Markey has sponsored the Child Victims Act, a bill that would "reform New York's archaic criminal and civil statute of limitations for childhood sexual abuse crimes," according to a press release from Markey's office.

"The Child Victims Act calls for the total elimination of the criminal and civil statute of limitations for child sexual abuse crimes in the future, with a complete one year suspension of the civil SOL to benefit older victims," the release also states. More than one-third of the members of the State Assembly have joined Markey to co-sponsor the bill.

The latest breaking news right to your inbox! Sign up for NCR email alerts.

Among the organizations supporting the Albany Lobby Day, five were Catholic groups, including the Catholic Coalition of Conscience, an umbrella group comprised of Call to Action Metro NY, Call to Action Upstate NY, Voice of the Faithful NY, and Dignity/NY.

Two of the event's speakers, Fr. Jim Connell and Notre Dame de Namur Sr. Maureen Turlish, were from Catholic Whistleblowers, a group of canon law experts and religious leaders. Turlish previously helped lead a successful drive to enact statute of limitations reform in the state of Delaware.

Perhaps unsurprisingly, the Child Victims Act has proven unpopular with Catholic bishops throughout the state. Their ongoing campaign against the measure has been called "shrewd and relentless" by The New York Times.

Bishop William Murphy of the diocese of Rockville Centre has been especially vocal in his opposition to the bill, most recently charging that it "seeks to penalize only the Catholic Church for past crimes of child sex abuse."

Art McGrath of CTA Metro NY and Mariann Perseo of VOTF-NY acknowledged institutional resistance to the bill but insisted that their religious tradition calls for these kinds of reforms. "Catholic theology and the Catholic Catechism call for reparative justice for the victims; consequences for the perpetrators; and protection for child victims," they said in a statement.

Earlier this week, Markey published a letter that she wrote to Pope Francis, asking him to meet with survivors of child sexual abuse during his upcoming visit to New York City in September. The letter cites the pope's strong message to Pontifical Commission for the Protection of Minors on Feb. 2, 2015, and asks Francis for his "help in convincing New York Bishops to bring their views in alignment with yours on the subject of abuse."

Cardinal Sean O'Malley, archbishop of Boston and chair of the Pontifical Commission for the Protection of Minors, was also copied on the letter.

An online petition of support for the Child Victims Act was also announced at the Lobby Day.

"There is no limit on what is a lifetime of suffering and anguish for so many victims of child sexual abuse," Markey said. "Nor should there be any limit on holding accountable those institutions and organizations that have deliberately protected and hidden perpetrators."

"Their actions make it possible for pedophiles to continue to prey on new victims," Markey concluded.

print
email
pdf
Like

19

Tweet

3

6

Show comments

Assemblywoman Margaret Markey, at lectern, and fellow assemblymembers and senators lead a rally in support of the Child Victims Act of New York on Wednesday in Albany, N.Y. More than 100 advocates and supporters of the legislation came to Albany to meet with assemblymembers and senators to lobby them to support the bill. (NY State Assembly)

 SEARCH

Doctoral degrees designed for ministry professionals

online | on-site | Rome | Oxford

Pastoral Counseling, Theology, Tribunal Studies

NCR EMAIL ALERTS

Sign up to get NCR updates by email. Existing users: change your preferences here. Enter your email address in the box below and click "Go."

Privacy by  SafeSubscribe™

We Are the Church Conferences
 Summer Scripture / Pastoral Ministry Conference in the Detroit Archdiocese

SUMMER SCRIPTURE

June 22–25, 2015

Carey Walsh

Fr. Patrick Mullen

Bp. Michael Byrnes

FR. RON ROLHEISER

August 3–5, 2015

"Spirituality
 and the Seasons of our Lives."

Click for Registration info and Lodging options

IN THIS ISSUE

APRIL 24-MAY 7, 2015

The cover of the National Catholic Reporter magazine features a large, bold title "National Catholic Reporter" at the top. Below the title is a sub-headline "Pre-encyclical pushback". The main article on the cover is titled "Church's credibility is seen in mercy, pope says" by Michael J. O'Boyle. To the left of the main article is a sidebar with several news headlines: "NYC NEWS: Bishop Blase Cupich: Pope Francis' moral leadership must be preserved," "RELIGION: Pope Francis' visit to Iraq: What does it mean for Christians?" (with a photo of Pope Francis in a military-style vest), "ARTS & LITERATURE: Pope Francis' legacy continues in India's literature of death," and "OPINION: Pope Francis' message to women: He's still got it". On the right side of the cover, there is a photo of Pope Francis in white clerical attire standing next to another man. At the bottom left, it says "This issue was mailed on April 11".

Editorial: Clear all obstacles from the path to peace with Iran

Conservative corners have tepid take on Pope Francis' environment encyclical

Where Pope Francis stands when it comes to women

This issue's Special Section: Summer Books

Some articles are only available in the print newspaper and Kindle edition.

SUBSCRIBE!

The advertisement features a large photo of Pope Francis smiling and waving his right hand. Overlaid on the photo is the word "VISION" in large blue letters, with "VOCATION GUIDE" in smaller letters below it. To the right of the photo, there is a purple vertical bar containing text: "Find the vocation that's right for you" and "TURN TO A TRUSTED GUIDE". The background of the ad shows a sunset over hills.

LATEST POSTS >

Five nuns walk off teaching jobs after students receive LGBT organization's fliers

by Mandy Erickson NCR Today

Examining the merits and morals of NYC's proposed Pier 55

by Donna Schaper Eco Catholic

In India, a truly outstanding road map for creating gender equality

by Christine Schenk Simply Spirit

Living like prisoners: Women talk about US detention centers

by Nuri Vallbona Immigration and the Church

Links for 04/23/15

by Michael Sean Winters Distinctly Catholic

Should the Boston Marathon bomber get the death penalty? A Catholic's response

by Zachary R. Dehm Young Voices

Morning Briefing

by Tom Roberts NCR Today

Dems Need to Oppose TPP & Fast-Track Trade Authority

by Michael Sean Winters Distinctly Catholic

California priest charged with tax evasion, fraud

by Monica Clark NCR Today

Why Violent Religious Extremism?

by Maureen Fiedler NCR Today

More posts >

ACCOUNTABILITY

ART & MEDIA

FAITH & PARISH

GLOBAL

POLITICS

SPIRITUALITY

THEOLOGY

VATICAN

CONTACT ABOUT NCR ADVERTISE DONATE SUBSCRIBE

National Catholic Reporter publications: NCRonline.org | CelebrationPublications.org |
GlobalSistersReport.org

Copyright © The National Catholic Reporter Publishing Company | 115 E. Armour Blvd., Kansas City, MO 64111 | 1-800-444-8910