Former Baltimore Ravens cheerleader Molly Shattuck—the estranged wife of former Constellation Energy CEO Mayo Shattuck—has pleaded guilty to performing oral sex with a 15-year-old boy in a hotel room, according to TMZ and the Associated Press.

The details of the rape investigation involving the NFL's oldest cheerleader Molly Shattuck...

Shattuck reportedly first found the boy on Instagram last year and began a physical relationship with him in a middle school parking lot in May. The two allegedly continued to meet over the summer, and in September, at a Delaware beach house the 48-year-old former cheerleader had rented for her kids and their friends, Shattuck allegedly performed oral sex on the boy twice, once outside the home and once in her bedroom, after providing him with liquor.

TMZ reports that Shattuck has reached a deal with prosecutors in which she'll plead guilty to one count of rape in the 4th degree. When she's sentenced in August, Shattuck could receive a sentence of 15 years.

When in the flying FUCK are we going to re-structure sentencing guidelines for sex crimes??????

Having forcible/violent intercourse with a 4 year old child can get you in and out of prison in 5 fucking years.

On what planet is this just? And there is a FIFTEEN year max on a consensual blowjob????

I know, I know, he's a minor.

Don't tell me for one goddamned minute there isn't a solar system of difference between him and an actual child.

This is insane.

*Notice I'm not excusing her actions by any stretch of the imagination before I get lambasted... I just think some jail time and having to register as a sex offender is quite enough. The kid agreed to get blown, and quite happily I'm sure.

Actually you just excused her actions right there at the end of your post.

The point I was making is that, while what she did was very, very wrong on many levels, in no way does this equate to some of the disgusting things grown people do to children.

I think what REALLY needs to happen here is the re-defining of rape altogether. Surely we can agree on that much. This, in my eyes, does not constitute rape as I know the word.

As a survivor of forcible rape that left me bloodied and in desperate need of an ambulance, it's fucking insulting. Sorry.

Well, you edited the last sentence of your post where you said it wasn't rape. So kudos, at least I got you to make an edit.

Did this woman just wake up in our country with these laws? If she just landed on planet earth and is not human and therefore has no experience with what is right and wrong, then I'm with you.

It's like saying robbing $50,000 from Citibank should just get you a slap on the wrist, they don't need the money anyways. You knowingly broke a law, you didn't end up in a moment of passion with a kid who you assumed was 18, you planned this out fully knowing the kid was 15.

Also, maybe you'd have a point if she were 28 and/or he was 17.... But we're talking an almost 50 year old woman getting down with a child... 15 is a child, even my 17 year old male cousin seems like he's 14

Yes it is. Statutory rape, at the very least. Age dynamic, power dynamic, giving booze to a minor to make it easier? Rape, rape, rape, rape, rape. Please don't feed that creepy boys-like-it BS.

I can guarantee you if you took a survey and asked 15 years old boys "Would you have sexual relationship with a NFL cheerleader in her 40's". Over 80% would say yes and that's lowballing it.

Can we really call it rape when every single straight man would kill to have had this experience? I think it diminishes the word rape.

Stalked? If you read the article they spoke for a while before meeting, and everything was consensual.

---

George Tarleton ▶ BobbySerious
6/16/15 3:17pm

You're absolutely right, "stalked" was out of line. What she did was find a 15 year old kid on Instagram, become obsessed with him, use her 15 year old son to introduce her to him, and tried to get him drunk so she could fuck him. But definitely not "stalked."

Obligatory PSA:

ADULTS - Please do not have sexual relations with kids. No, not even teenagers. No, not even if they're big for their age. Just stop it. Stop it right now.

When will we stop persecuting these brave kidfucking civil rights pioneers?

These guys really get the youths of today. Not like all the boring squares, with their stupid 'age of consent' and 'statutory rape' restrictions. Kidfuckers really know what's up with the middle schoolers - they're DTF, it's just a puritanical, hysterical society holding them back from fucking adults like god intended.

The kidfuckers are the true victims in all this.
